HOUSE SIDESTEPS JAPANESE ISSUE

Raker "Asiatic Exclusion" Bill to Apply to Hindus Only. Is Committee Plan.

Acting on a quiet suggestion from the State Department the House Committee on Immigration has sidestepped, for the session at least, the Japanese exclusion question. The committee has practically decided to report supplemental immigration legislation aimed at the Hindu and the Raker "Asiatic exclusion" bill will have part of its teeth drawn.

In view of the rather delicate Japanese situation, the committee probably will not report for some weeks the amended Raker bill. It is feared that immediate consideration in the House might revive the discussion of the "yellow peril," and this is what the State Department desires to avoid.

As a "stop" to the Pacific coast, it is reported that the committee eventually will recommend a bill excluding Hindus of low caste, but it is doubtful that Pacific coast members who want a drastic Asiatic exclusion bill, including the Japanese, will be satisfied with the committee plan.

A Cambetti, commissioner general of immigration, recently appeared before the committee yesterday. Commissioner Cambetti devoted himself exclusively to the necessity of keeping out the Hindu, and he said not one word about the Japanese. The State Department is said to have been displeased with the former talk of the immigration commissioner.

Congressman Albert Johnson of Washington is not favorably impressed with the plan of the committee to bring out a bill affecting Hindu immigration only. He told the committee that "it is cowardly to use the Hindu bill to sidetrack legislation excluding the Japanese."

So acute is the feeling on the Pacific coast on the Japanese immigration problem that it is doubted that the bill of all members can be closed if the Asiatic exclusion bill ever reaches the floor.

Chautauquas May Hear Candidates for Senator

The three-sided Senatorial struggle in Pennsylvania may be fought out on the Chautauquas platform, next fall.

It was said today that at least two of the candidates, Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democrat, and Governor Pinchot, Progressive, had been approached by Chautauquas managers who want to schedule their appearance in sixty cities. The managers have offered to allow them to choose their own topics.

Should they accept, the proposed tour would take them over the circuit made popular last year by Secretary Bryan. A number of years ago Champ Clark and Charles H. Grosvenor, then from Ohio, made a big "chill" in a series of so-called joint debates throughout the country, under hygienic auspices.

"Pinefore" will be presented by pupils of McKinley Manual Training School, at Seventh and Rhode Island avenue northwest, tonight. Special dances will be featured.

The production is entirely a "Tech" one, music being provided by the "Tech" orchestra, under the direction of Dore Wolfstetter. The scenery was painted at the school. The play will be in the assembly hall and will be repeated tomorrow and next Tuesday night.

Garland Mitchell, of San Francisco, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Carrie Fuller in M street. Mr. Mitchell is a former Washington boy.

POLICEMAN'S WIFE HELD FOR SHOOTING

Driven From Home by Fusillade. Policeman Lee Tells Brother Officers.

Charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Patrolman William J. Lee, of the Second precinct, his wife, Mrs. Annie Lee, forty-one, is a prisoner today in Washington Asylum Hospital, where she was sent last night following her arrest by police of the Eighth precinct.

Lee, hatless and coatless, rushed into Station 5 last night, and said that, following a family quarrel at their home, 222 Georgia avenue northwest, his wife had fired two shots at him. Lee, unhurt, dashed from the house and ran to the station, three blocks away.

Policemen Heathcote and Crouch placed Mrs. Lee under arrest. She declined to make any statement at the station, and Lee did not offer any explanation of the events leading up to the shooting. Mrs. Lee probably will be given a hearing in Police Court tomorrow.

Mrs. Ben Lindsey III; Court Work the Cause

DENVER, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Ben B. Lindsey, wife of Denver's noted juvenile court judge, is in Mercy Hospital. The physicians say her condition is not critical, although she is suffering from nervousness and heart trouble.

The high altitude is given as the direct cause, but it was declared that her strenuous work in aiding her husband in his care of the many juvenile offenders had taxed her vitality.
